

A painting of a cockatoo in flight, shown in profile facing left. The bird has a white body with a prominent crest of red, orange, and yellow feathers. Its wings are spread, showing white feathers with blue and green accents. The background is a textured mix of blue and green.

WILDLIFE CRIME
POLICY
AND THE LAW

AN AUSTRALIAN
STUDY

Don McDowell

WILDLIFE CRIME, POLICY AND THE LAW AN AUSTRALIAN STUDY

By Don McDowell

© Commonwealth of Australia, 1997

ISBN 0 644 476117

CONTENTS

WILDLIFE CRIME POLICY AND THE LAW: AN AUSTRALIAN STUDY

PREFACE	1
CHAPTER 1 : INTRODUCTION	2
About This Assessment	2
• Setting policy	2
• The objectives and parameters of this study	2
Defining the Setting	5
• The topic, the law and public perceptions	5
• Criminals or simple wrong-doers ?	8
• Policies and commitment at all levels of government	9
Methodological Approach to the Assessment	10
• Collecting both “hard” and “soft” data	10
• Accessing enforcement and compliance-related data	10
• Client expectations and their impact on project design	11
• Interaction with members of the public	12
• Ensuring sensitivity	12
• Estimating the size of the problem	13
CHAPTER 2 : LEGISLATION	14
Federal and State Responsibilities for the Regulation of the Movement of Wildlife	14
The Influence of Historical Antecedents of the Development of Wildlife Legislation at the State Level	15
The Marketplace	17
• Effectively regulating the marketplace	18
• The objectives of effective regulation	19
Legislative Provisions for Intra-State Transactions in Fauna	19
Legislative Provisions for Interstate Transactions	22
• Reverse onus of proof	24
• The range of species available for possession	25
• Involvement of non-regulatory personnel in detection of trafficking	25
• Anomalies	26
Non-Legislative Administrative Provisions	27
• Containment and monitoring of transaction provisions	27

Potential for Laundering of Illegal Activities Through a Record-Keeping System	28
Conclusion : Necessary Future Development	30
• Chapter 2 Bibliography	31
CHAPTER 3 :
WILDLIFE ENFORCEMENT : STRUCTURE AND MECHANISMS	32
The Basic Issues	32
• Introduction	32
• Defining the roles of enforcement	32
• Anti-crime activities v. compliance monitoring	34
• Differentiating between Federal and State/Territory roles	34
Federal Enforcement Arrangements	37
• The Australian Nature Conservation Agency - ANCA	37
• The Australian Customs Service - CUSTOMS	39
• The Australian Quarantine Inspection Service - AQIS	40
• The Australian Federal Police - AFP	41
State and Territory Enforcement Arrangements	41
• Parks and wildlife departments	41
• Other Police forces	43
• The Australian Bureau of Criminal Intelligence - ABCI	44
International Cooperative Agreements - CITES	44
CHAPTER 4 : CRIME AND WILDLIFE	47
Illegal Trading - Differentiating Crime and Non-Compliance	47
• Wildlife control regulations and their intent	47
• Permit-holders - keeping to the rules	49
• Opting out of the control systems	50
• Going beyond permit violations - the entry into crime	51
Types of Offences Involving Australian Wildlife	53
• Permit violations and “backyard trade”	53
• Organised illegal trading - the middle tier	55
• Serious, major crime activities - Australian and overseas markets	56
Smuggling Exotica into Australia	57
• Illegal trafficking of exotica	57
• Potential risks to Australian wildlife, agriculture, animal and population health	59
• Policies, priorities and controls	60
Patterns of Wildlife Crime and Non-Compliance	61
• Measuring or estimating the extent of illegal activity	61
• Offences against Federal legislation	64
• Features of wildlife smuggling	65

The Elements of Criminal Planning	69
• Selection of wildlife species for collection	69
• Determination of likely markets and pricing structure	69
• Source locations for targeted wildlife species	70
• Availability of skilled and experienced participants	70
• Recruitment of “support” participants	71
• Maps, sketches and photos of collection sites	71
• Local knowledge	71
• Travel arrangements: bases, staging points and collection sites	72
• Communication systems	72
• Concealment methods and special equipment needs	72
Moving into Crime	73
• Preparation, organisation and motivation	73
Facilitating Conditions for Wildlife Crime	76
• Legislative gaps and inconsistencies	76
• Priority and resource differences between agencies	76
• Illegal focus on “desirable” species of wildlife	79
• Criminal perceptions:	80
availability of markets - high profit margins - low risk
The Impact of Wildlife Crime	82
• Targeted wildlife species - attraction and intended markets	82
• Risk to wildlife populations and habitat	84
• Public reaction to wildlife trafficking	85
• Direct economic impact	86
CHAPTER 5 : THE CONDUCT & IMPACT OF ENFORCEMENT ACTIVITY	88
Introduction	88
Agency Priorities and their Impact	89
Inter-agency Arrangements and Cooperation	94
• Annual wildlife enforcement seminars	95
Information, Investigation and Technology	96
• Information collection and data handling	97
• Application of computer technology	98
• Information sharing	99
Providing Intelligence Support to Wildlife Enforcement	100
• The need for intelligence	100
• Existing intelligence resources	101
• Arguing the case for intelligence in wildlife enforcement	102
• Options for centralised intelligence support	102
• Design features of a national wildlife intelligence unit	104
• Staffing the intelligence apparatus	105
Enforcement Outcomes and Their Measurement	106

Managing the Enforcement of Wildlife Law	108
Enforcement vis à vis Public Perceptions of Crime	110
Attitude of the Courts	113
Impact on Criminals and Other Wrong-doers	113
• Repeat offences by individuals committing low-level crime	114
• Recidivism and more serious, organised wildlife crime	114
• Changes in criminal behaviour - the impact of enforcement action	115
International Cooperative Efforts in Enforcement	119
Corruption of Officials	120
• Public perception - folklore, assertion or evidence ?	120
• Corrupt behaviour - opportunities and patterns	121
• Placing corruption in perspective	123
CHAPTER 6 : KEY ISSUES FOR WILDLIFE FUTURES	126
Perceptions of the Wildlife "Problem"	126
• Personal belief systems and their impact on wildlife policy	126
• Wildlife species, interest groups and their focus	127
• Differentiating endangered and at risk wildlife from other categories of wild species	128
• Understanding the disparate views: the public, industry and enforcement	129
Issues for Policy-making, Legislation, Regulation and Strategy Development	129
• Rules, regulations and common sense : generating and evaluating possibilities for change	129
• Emotional, cultural and scientific views of wildlife crime : seeking sensible compromise	130
• Formulating policies to suit specific risk categories of wildlife	131
• Developing safeguards for the continuance of gene pools	131
• Deterring crime and minimising illegal market opportunities	132
• Public education, the media, and public involvement in countering wildlife crime	133
CHAPTER 7 : WILDLIFE POLICY AND PRACTICE - OPTIONS FOR CHANGE	134
The Wildlife Policy Setting	134
• Defining national environmental and conservation objectives	134
• Competing pressures on wildlife:	135
– illegal trafficking
– threatened habitat
– gene pool reduction
– natural predation
• Developing holistic policy options - addressing total wildlife protection needs	136

Policy Development Alternatives	136
• Federal and State/Territory legislation	136
• Enforcement roles and responsibilities	137
Conclusion	138
• Conservation - protection - sustainable utilisation	138
APPENDICES	139
1. Wildlife Study - Project Directive and Terms of Reference	140
2. State and Territory Wildlife Legislation (includes Table of Comparison of Trafficking Provisions)	141
3. Summary of Federal Prosecutions under the Wildlife Protection (Regulation of Exports and Imports) Act 1982	169
4. Selected Bibliography and Further Reading	182
5. CITES: Explanatory Notes on the Convention on International Trade in Endangered Species of Wild Fauna and Flora	183